Hockey Notes

Back about last Wednesday, Feb. 10th, the Irma junior hockey club were sort of hankering for a game of hockey. Whether the name "Albert Steam Rollers" was thought to be a good drawing card or that they were known to be good sports we cannot say. The fact remains that Manager Harris was called on the phone to arrange a game. At this time, however, it did not seem possible for these players to roll into town the next evening, so a game was arranged with the Alma Mater boys for Thursday evening. Late Thursday afternoon word was despatched to Irma that the Rollers were coming with a full head of steam. This news, however, did not discourage the juniors. Shortly after seven bells the conflict between the juniors and a team picked from Alma Mater and Roseberry took place. This proved very interesting to the spectators who had turned out fairly well for an evening's enjoyment. When the smoke of battle cleared away the records showed that the juniors had a credit of three goals while their opponents has just managed to secure one. Albert Glasgow scored two of the goals for Irma and Allison Carter one. The Irma line-up was: Inkin, Simmermon, L. Jones, A. Glasgow, J. Sharkey, A. Carter, A. Knudson, C. Jones, C. Carter and H. Knudner. We were unable to get the Alma Mater line-up.

After a short rest the juniors again came on the ice to battle the Steam Rollers. This game provided lots of fun for the spectators as well as good practice for the players, but unfortunately for the Albert boys they did not generate enough steam before starting in. The Irma lads started the scoring in the first period when C. Carter bagged one in a scrimmage near the goal. In the next period R. Simmermon scored the second goal for Irma, followed by Albert Glasgow assisted by A. Carter for the third. The fourth was scored by C. Jones assisted by A. Knudson, and the fifth by A. Carter on an assist from A. Glasgow. The only goal scored by the Rollers was scored in the third period by Allen Larson assisted by Ivan Hardy when the Irma defence were caught off their guard.

The games provide good amusement and are well worth the few cents it costs to see them. The receipts at these games have not been what they should be. These boys are the future senior players and they need the money for equipment to keep on playing. A little more patronage would be greatly appreciated.

The Wainwright juniors kept the Irma junior team from scoring in a fast game in Wainwright on Feb. 12, while they scored twice. This was the first win of the season over Irma. It seemed the Irma boys could not locate the goal at all. All the shots—which were numerous—missed the goal by feet. Watch for the next game between these teams.

Irma Trims Sedgewick
Playing on home ice in the first round in the Black cup series, Irma won from Sedgewick 5-3, and tying Sedgewick on their ice 3-3, and taking the round 8 to 6. The game here in Irma was the fastest ever witnessed here in many a moon. Sedgewick had a two-goal lead in the first period, the score being 2-0, and in the second they still held the lead 3-1. During the final rest period every hockey fan was hoping that Irma would win, but how? — as two goals was a mighty big lead. When the gong sounded for the start of the final drive the Irma hockey team came out fighting and scored four goals in short order, and Sedgewick could not reply. So ended a great and glorious hockey game. Boy, what a win!

In the game played Wednesday night between the Bush Mines Tigers of Edmonton and the Irma team, in the second round for the Black cup, Irma came out on top of the 4-1 score. The game was played in the worst storm of the year, but both teams played hard, smart hockey with only three penalties being handed out. The Irma squad scored twice in the first and second, and the lone Tiger's marker came in the dying minute of the game. This gives Ir-

ALBERT DISTRICT NEWS

We are glad to learn that little Dorothy Larson, whose illness last week necessitated the attention of Dr. Greenberg, is improving.

Albert sports who attended the Sedgewick - Irma hockey game played at Sedgewick Saturday night were V. Larson, L. Bars, W. J. Matthews, G. Currie, K. Matheson, N. Johnston and J. Hastings.

The W.M.S. met with Mrs. C. L. Currie this week. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lukens Sr.

Mrs. Herbert is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Larson.

The W. I. meeting held at Mrs. Ramsay's last Thursday was well attended. Next meeting will be held at Mrs. Robt. Johnston's with Mrs. H. Johnston and Mrs. Elwood as tea hostesses, and Mrs. Hay and Mrs. Ramsay Sr. as program conveners. One new member was enrolled.

The Happy Hikers held an enjoyable social evening at Mrs. C. L. Currie's on Tuesday night.

Owing to the illness of one of the cast, the three-act play on which the young folks are working, has been postponed.

ORBINDALE NEWS

On Tuesday, February 2, the Orbindale hockey team met the Albert Steam Rollers at the Albert rink in a rip-roaring rapsanorous battle. The Steam Rollers struggled persistently, vainly and vainly to flatten the Orbindale pucksters. In spite of the clean rivalry, the game was fairly clean. Two penalties came to Orbindale and Albert escaped entirely the referee's pointed finger. The final score was Orbindale 7, Albert 3.

On Saturday, February 6, Roseberry and Orbindale clashed on the Roseberry ice, in a very clean game with plenty of action in evidence on both sides. No penalties were handed out and the only hold-up was occasioned by the intrusion of George Wilson's dog, Jughaid, onto the ice. Roseberry went down to defeat under a 6-2 score.

On February 10th Orbindale won over Paschenadale at the latter's rink with a score of 5 to 5.

The best game to be played on Orbindale ice this season took place on Sunday when the Alma Mater team called to pay respects and otherwise. After a severe rough and tumble scrimmage that several times threatened to become more than a hockey game, the visitors went home with 2 goals, leaving Orbindale the undisputed possession of the game with 7 goals. However the score was hardly a fair indication of the play. The teams were about evenly matched. The top-sided score was due in part at least to the superior goal keeping of Babe Prior.

Walter Glover, F. Lakens and Earl Prior were unable to take part in Sunday's game.

We wonder how much longer it will be possible to report that our hockey team is undefeated. What about it, Steam Rollers?

The management of the rink is planning a hockey tournament for Wednesday, February 17th. Teams from several surrounding districts are expected to participate, so that spectators are assured of a full afternoon of entertainment.

The same evening the Go-Getter's club is sponsoring a card party and dance in the school.

Don Mullins is now coach of the hockey juniors.

We understand that a play is being planned for presentation sometime in March.

Everyone had a good time at the dance held in the school on February 12th. The lucky winners of the rousing contest were Mr. P. Keller and Mr. T. Lewis.

Anglican Church Notes

Evening prayer and sermon will be held in St. Mary's church, Irma, on Sunday, February 21st, at 3 p.m. The special preacher will be Rev. Harding Priest, B. D.

ma a very nice lead. When they invade the Tigers' home rink on Saturday night for the final game of the series, let's go, Irma!

"Just Average Folks"

There are no mysterious "fifty big shots" crushing the debtors of Alberta.

The bond and mortgage holders of this Province are just average folks—just such neighbourly people as you deal with every day—people who have hood their row successfully, put by a little savings from year to year and tried to invest these savings securely, thus creating nest eggs for their old age.

The $382,000,000 invested by life insurance companies in city and farm mortgages in Canada are the savings of 3,500,000 policyholders. In the same way, other hundreds of millions held in mortgages by loaning companies are the savings of scores of thousands of shareholders and debenture holders—$70,000,000 of mortgage holdings of one such company alone representing the savings of between fifty and sixty thousand persons of average means.

In Canada, it is the people of such average means who provide the funds which are invested in bonds and mortgages in Alberta and other provinces.

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

(The seventh statement in this series will be published in two weeks)

ALMA MATER NEWS

Things are looking up in the Alma Mater district when the home hockey team came out on the long end of a 4-1 score against the Albert Steam Rollers on Saturday, February 6th.

The Steam Rollers were off to a good start with the first goal in the early part of the game when G. Urquhart scored on a pass from behind the A. M. goal.

The score was tied up in the second period when B. Patterson sunk a long shot from centre ice. B. Inkin put A. M. in the lead when he scored their second goal.

In the third period B. Inkin scored again on a pass from B. Patterson. In the dying minutes of the game C. Glover in a spectacular one-man rush scored the final goal, making the count 4-1 in favor of A. M.

The sensational playing of C. Renwick in the A. M. nets had much to do with holding the Steam Rollers to a single goal.

Line-ups
Alma Mater—Renwick, C. Glover, I. Goodale, T. Thurston, B. Inkin, B. Patterson, P. Inkin, E. Goodale, J. Burton, W. Whitley, L. Thurston.

Albert Steam Rollers—V. Bjork, H. Larson, B. Lukens, G. Urquhart, C. Lukens, Johnston, A. Larson, R. Larson, P. Millar.

Referee—R. W. Patterson.

On Saturday, January 30th, at Roseberry, Alma Mater shut out Roseberry Canadiens to the tune of 3-0. At the end of the regular time the score was a 0-0 tie. Two goals by C. Glover and one by W. Whitley put the game on ice for A. M. The credit goes to Shutout Renwick for stopping all that the Canadiens had to offer.

OBITUARY

THEOPHILE BENOIT

The Requiem Mass and funeral service for the late Theophile Benoit of Fabyan, took place at the Blessed Sacrament Church, Wainwright, Ash Wednesday, February 10. United Church Notes

A group of ten boys from Irma attended the boys' conference at Viking on Saturday and Sunday last, and report they had a fine time. The addresses given by the leaders from St. Stephen's college, Edmonton, under the general title of "Quo Vadis" were both challenging and inspiring; the athletic events provided good fun and healthy exercise; while the bountiful hospitality of the Viking friends, who so generously entertained the visitors in their homes, was all that heart could wish. Art Knudson and Bob Charter, both spoke at the banquet on Saturday evening. The boys who went to Viking will no doubt have received many new ideas to pass on to our home group, and will carry on the work with renewed zest after such an inspiring week-end. A hearty "Thank you" is passed on to the friends who so kindly took the boys to and from Viking in their cars.

The next meeting of the Young People's Union will be held on Thursday, February 25th. These meetings are becoming increasingly interesting and inspiring as the young folks are getting into their stride. Make up your mind to attend this coming meeting. After the opening devotional exercises, you will be interested to hear the business items which will be considered; and you will certainly enjoy the entertainment numbers; while the topic to be given by a chosen speaker will be well worth hearing. There will also be luncheon at the close. If you feel you are a young person you should be present, and if you feel you have passed that stage, you are most welcome as a guest.

Rev. Dr. Peter Bryce, moderator of the United Church of Canada, has recently issued the following message: "I desire simply to emphasize the fact that Evangelism is still the supreme function of the Church. It is the effort of the whole church in all possible ways to become the herald of a vital truth and a way of life comprehending all the powers of each individual and the total activity of all community groups. It may be individual and personal, or social and comprehensive. In whatever way it is used, it describes a permanent activity of the Church and one that sorely needs to be restored to the modern world. That our Church may ever keep in mind that Christ's touch has still its ancient power, and that this may be made known at home and abroad, is my earnest prayer."

Service in the Irma Church next Sunday, February 21st, at 7.30 p.m. This is the Lenten season. Why not come to Church?

JARROW JOTTINGS

A party of neighbors with saw and engine called at the home of R. T. Meakin's and sawed several loads of logs. Mr. and Mrs. Meakin's very much appreciated this kind action of their friends. R. T. was heard to say "It's the prettiest sight I have seen on this homestead for many years, this nice pile of sawed wood."

Mrs. Meakin's, who is well known as a good cook, furnished fine meals for the good neighbors who came and gave a helping hand in the time of need.

Mrs. W. Russell returned with her young son from Edmonton Monday. Mrs. Russell took her boy to a specialist several weeks ago. The boy was in a serious condition. We are pleased that he is now improved in health.

Several of our people in town and country are still suffering with the flu.

Miss Ethel Peel is visiting with her aunt south of Irma.

KINSELLA KERNELS

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ferries, Miss Jean Bowden and Mearns, Jack McKie and Pender Smith motored to Edmonton on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Dupre of Edmonton were visitors in Kinsella over the week-end.

Miss Edith Watson of Irma spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. J. Kapler, of Stettler, is now manager of the Kinsella creamery.

Miss Ella Cormack returned to Edmonton on Friday, February 12th.

Mr. Gilbert Stuart left for Bashaw last week.

The Constitutional Problem

Whatever politicians on any party front may think or say on the subject, the people of the country and certainly those of Western Canada must have come to the conclusion by this time that some changes in the constitution are necessary in the light of recent decisions of the Privy Council on questions referred to them as to the validity of Canadian social and marketing legislation.

While on the surface the respective rights of the Federal parliament or provincial legislatures to enact legislation of this character involved in these rulings of the court of last resort, the question goes deeper than that, now that Canada has emerged from swaddling clothes and has assumed the status of nationhood.

Taking it for granted that the people of this country should have the legal right to implement in legislation any plans or policies the majority may desire to impose, there is one school of thought which contends that this end should be achieved by securing amendments to the British North America Act from the British Parliament, while another group is of the opinion that the Act should be abrogated, leaving the way open to the major government of this country to draft and enact its own constitution.

The greater part of a century has rolled around since the passage of the British North America Act, allocating responsibilities and legislative jurisdiction as between the Dominion parliament and the provincial assemblies at the time of Confederation. Since that time there have not only been great changes in the condition of the country, but also in the legislative needs and aspirations of the governed as well as in the status of the Dominion in its relationship to the Mother country and the Empire.

Among these changes in needs and desires is a marked trend in the direction of increasing governmental administration of social services, whether by the Dominion or the provinces. It is true there are those who dislike this trend but, nevertheless, if a majority of the people demand governmental administration or control of such services, a constitution written seven years ago when circumstances were very different, should not be allowed to block the pathway.

That the necessity for revision of authority in some form exists and that the British Parliament is not likely to stand in the way of the desires of the Canadian people for greater elasticity in shaping their own course, is evident from the comment of the London Times immediately after the Privy Council decisions were published, when this authoritative organ of British public opinion said:

"Now that it is definitely established how narrow are the limits restricting the authority of the Dominion Parliament, it is for the statesmen and people of Canada to determine what extensions are necessary. All parties are agreed there must be some redistribution of powers between the Dominion and the provinces, but difficulties arise as soon as any attempt is made to work out a new division or even settle the method of amendment."

The Times also points out that "as the constitution now stands the Dominion Parliament has no authority to legislate on industrial or social questions or regulate marketing in any general way; which means that until the constitution is amended the national government and Parliament of Canada are precluded from dealing with matters of increasingly great and urgent national importance."

As the situation now stands it appears not only desirable but imperative that no time be lost in dealing with this highly important question, and it should be dealt with in such a manner that in future when the country has made up its mind that legislation of any type is needed and desirable there will be no legal barriers to render it impotent, provided it is properly drawn.

The matter is of too great import to the future welfare of the country to be made the subject of political capitalization and it is imperative that the subject be approached by all political parties in a non-partisan way with a single eye to the country's needs.

The desired result could undoubtedly be best achieved by a conference of Dominion and provincial authorities devoted solely to the constitutional question. Such conference should be as representative as it is possible to make it. Principles which can be accorded support as nearly as possible to unanimity by all sections of the Dominion should be laid down and agreed upon and methods to be adopted to implement those decisions should be the subject of mutual agreement.

If a satisfactory program of this nature be carried to its ultimate conclusion and the problem approached in the right spirit, existing difficulties should be solved without dissension from within or objection from without the Dominion.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. The cause of the soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from any druggist, a package of Hemorrhoid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemorrhoid is a physician's prescription and it seems the height of folly for anyone to take operation for hemorrhoid, when Hemorrhoid is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Taking Rest Cure

Flying Career Too Strenuous For Mrs. Amy Mollison

In a clinic on the mountainside above Geneva, Mrs. Amy Mollison, who is 33, is seeking to win back the health she enjoyed until the strain of her flying career made itself felt. The clinic is close to glorious snowfields where people of every nationality are now dispersing themselves. But, although Mrs. Mollison enjoys snow sports, it is likely that some time must elapse before she is able to join in them. When wished a Happy New Year on the telephone, she said: "I am feeling tired. All I want now is to rest, and to get back my strength. My cure will take at least a month," she added. "But then I hope that I shall be quite fit again."

The Right Pronunciation

People In U.S. Flooded Areas Peevish Over Mistakes

We live to learn. A radio announcer, broadcasting from the reinforced reventment wall at Cairo, Illinois, paused in his descriptive story to tell the rest of the world that the people of Cairo were peeved over outside pronunciation of their home town as "Kyo-ro." It seems that the local pronunciation is "Kyo-ro," and not "Ky-ro," as its name-sake in Egypt is pronounced. Another radio announcement gave the local pronunciation of New Madrid, Missouri, as New "Maddrid," with a falling accent on the "rid."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should work every day. If it fails to do so, you will feel tired, sluggish, and your food will not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Hard stools go into the body, and you feel sour, and the work done is not always kept at the cause. You need something that works on the liver. It takes these food pills. Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two points of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmon and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a liver. There are no colic or mercury in them. Buy Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Substitutes ruin anything else. 25c.

Famous Old Residence

Bransholme Castle Again Home Of Ducal Family Of Buecluch

After an interval of 180 years the ducal family of Buecluch has taken up residence once more at Bransholme Castle, near Hawick, says the News of the World. The Dowager Duchess, mother of the Duchess of Gloucester, is the new occupier, and will have the companionship of her two unmarried sons. Bransholme, or its site, is a lovely place. It was from there that William of Deloraine started on the ride immortalized in "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." In its forest days it was burned by an Earl of Northumberland, and blown up by an Earl of Surrey. Few houses have a more valuable art collection.

Heads Enlarge

Investigator Finds Cranium Increases In Size After Adult Age

Folks who have smarted under the stinging accusation of getting big-headed had vindication from the Smithsonian Institution.

Conducting tests on persons of at least three generations of United States ancestry, Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, announced he found the length and breadth of the head increases in men and women up to about the middle decades of life.

"Just why and how," he said, "this should continue after adult life is reached will be a point for future determination."

Road Accidents To Children

The London Daily Herald states that one of the root causes of road accidents to children has been found by the British Ministry of Transport and the Board of Education to be due to the natural characteristics of childhood—impulsiveness, thoughtlessness, lack of self-control, and inexperience. From this discovery will develop an intensification of efforts to inculcate road safety measures in the minds of children.

DO YOU HAVE "NERVES"?

No need for girls or women to suffer from periodic headaches, pains, headache, frequent headaches, and "nerves" caused me no end of distress. I did not feel well at night. Coronation Programme A Priceless Aid To Broadcast Listeners

Details Procession Step By Step And Service In Westminster Abbey Word By Word

Recent events in England have necessitated costly changes in the Official Souvenir Programme of the Coronation. Many new plates have had to be made, and portions of the text have had to be re-written and re-set.

Produced in the form of a brochure, the programme will be a masterpiece of the printer's art, in every way befitting the grandeur of the historic occasion it is designed to commemorate. It consists of thirty-two pages of text and illustration, with a cover bearing the Royal Coat of Arms, printed in full colours and gold.

According to a bulletin just received by this paper from St. James's Palace, the contents will include special photographs of The Majesty King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth; photographs of Her Majesty Queen Mary, Their Royal Highnesses the Princess Elizabeth, the Princess Margaret, and other members of the royal family; a coronation ode by John Masefield, poet laureate; the King's Majesty, the significance of the coronation to the Empire, by John Drinkwater; description of the coronation procession; a pictorial map of the route of the procession; the coronation service in Westminster Abbey; an explanation of the coronation ceremonial, with illustrations by Sir Gerald Wollaston, Garter principal king of arms; a genealogical chart showing the descent of the crown.

With the aid of this programme, those listening to the coronation broadcast from London will be able to follow the historic ceremony word for word, and with complete understanding of what is taking place in the heart-centre of the Empire at each and every moment.

Those wishing to secure a copy are strongly advised to order same through their bookseller or news agent without delay. The price is 50 cents, and delivery may be taken on April 23rd, when the programme goes on sale. Orders so placed now will definitely be filled, but once the presses start no further orders can be accepted beyond the few that can be taken care of out of a very conservative over-run.

Many public and private institutions, societies, clubs and hospitals have already ordered large supplies, and one West African colony will distribute copies in its public schools. Last reports from England are that more than half a million copies have already been sold.

By gracious permission of His Majesty, the programme is being issued by King George's Jubilee Trust, and with the proceeds will be donated to bettering the lot of the under-privileged youth of Great Britain.

"Darling, you were cheated when you bought my engagement ring." "Oh, no, I wasn't. I know my onions." "Perhaps, dear, but you don't know your carats."

Director Of Broadcasts

Englishwoman First To See Possibilities Of Education By Radio

A member of Sir John Reith's staff of whom little is known outside the B.B.C. headquarters in London is Miss Mary Somerville, O.B.E. She is director of broadcasts. The story behind this amazing service to schools really starts in a remote Scottish hamlet, where a young woman, still an Oxford under-graduate, heard her first broadcast of music, recalls the Glasgow Herald. She was recuperating from an illness, and her great interest was education. Vividly she saw the possibilities, and soon afterwards she found her way to John Reith, then chairman of the old British Broadcasting Company. Mr. Reith (he had not then been knighted) had already determined to explore the possibilities of broadcast education, and he was on the look-out for officials with a zest for pioneering. He appointed Mary Somerville at once to help in developing the broadcasts to schools. On his advice she went back to Oxford to take a degree, but she travelled up to London once a week to help in the experimental stages of the work at Savoy Hill. It was a tremendous effort to create staff, machine, organization, programs and contacts with schools out of the raw material of men, women and contending ideas.

SELECTED RECIPES

CHERRY ROLL

Temperature: 375 degrees F. Time: 25 minutes.
1 can cherries; 1 cup boiling water; 1/2 cup sugar; 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon; 2 cups Royal Household flour; 4/2 teaspoons baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/2 cup shortening; 1 cup milk; 1 tablespoon butter.
Drain the cherries and to the juice add the boiling water, sugar and cinnamon. Boil gently for five minutes. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt; cut in the shortening with a dough blender. Make a well in the centre of the mixture, and into this pour the milk. Stir gently and turn the dough on a floured board. Knead for twenty counts; then roll into oblong shape. Sprinkle the dough with the cherries and roll up as a jelly roll. Place in greased casserole and pour the syrup over the roll. Cover and bake in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. Remove lid, spread with the softened butter and bake about 10 minutes until brown. To Last Thousand Years

Manuscript Of Codex Sinaiticus Has Been Repaired And Bound

At the British Museum they have bound the Codex Sinaiticus to last another thousand years. Mr. Cockrell, who undertook the task, has had many difficulties. The vellum leaves made of sheepskin were much torn at the edges. The manuscript is in detached bundles of leaves, with some single ones. The leaves have been mended, the vellum softened, stretched and flattened and the Codex Sinaiticus will now go down the centuries, in two volumes, bound in white goatskin leather, between boards of English oak.

How Many Pennies Your Child's Life?

Don't Try to "Save" on Home Remedies—Ask Your Doctor

There is one point, on which practically all doctors agree. That is: Don't give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.

All mothers know this. But sometimes the instinct to "save a few pennies by buying something just as good" overcomes caution.

When it comes to the widely used children's remedy—"milk of magnesia"—many doctors for over half a century have said "PHILLIPS." For Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the standard of the world. Safe for children.

Keep this in mind, and say "PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA" when you buy. Comes now, also in tablet form. Get the form you prefer. But see that what you get is labeled "Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia." Ask for a big box of the tablets at drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM: Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY —

He broke off abruptly. They had both become conscious of Michael's eyes following them. Michael's eyes held a gleam of jealousy as he viewed this intimate little scene between his wife and the man who once had been reported to be her lover.

They were back in the privacy of their own apartment, however, before Michael said a word. Then he burst out:

"I'm sorry we had to run into Marlowe tonight, Starr. I intended for you never to see him again."

Starr's face was strained. She had known subconsciously that it would be like this. All through their honeymoon in the country they had not mentioned Lance's name at all, as though by common consent. Michael had asked her nothing about the man. But she could not forget—Once, in that despairing mood, she had tacitly admitted to Michael that she had taken Lance Marlowe as her lover. That she had said it when she did for Michael's sake meant nothing now. If only she had not!

And now, because of Lance, after their long days of peace, they were in the midst of conflict again, tortured with memories which refused to be lived down.

It all was so plain to Starr. Rossip linking her name with Lance's; her own voice crying out to Michael on that crazy night, telling him that she had been Lance's mistress, trying to make him hate her.

It was more than Starr could bear. She turned to her husband swiftly, pleadingly. Her voice raged.

"Michael, I've wanted to explain to you so many times, only some how I couldn't. There has never been anything between Lance and me, never! I lied to you. All of that awful time I was living a lie? Michael, you do believe me, don't you? You must believe me!"

Michael, looking down on her said: "Of course I do," pressing her small, cold hands very tightly in his big ones. "You're my wife, and I love you."

But there was a strange edge to his voice which chilled her, in spite of his words.

CHAPTER XVII.

Busy days again. Except for that slight undercurrent of an imperfect understanding which Starr felt for lost time. He left it to Starr to hunt out their new home. She had about come to the determination that they should not live in an apartment house at all, but should take one of those attractive houses out in Forest Hills. So much more like a home, with an upstairs and down, your own lawn, and a lovely wisteria vine that would be a purple cloud in the summer time.

Michael made a little objection. It was so far away from business, he said. But with a wife concerned for his health, Starr insisted that the drive into town each morning would be just the thing he needed. Perhaps he would not get any fresh air otherwise.

So it went, with most of their discussions at breakfast, at the lunch-table, and at the dinner-table. Starr took with her husband, and during the placid evenings they spent together in the Egyptian living room with the Del-el-Bahari fresco. Life was perfect again—almost.

Then catastrophe. It was on a December morning not far from Christmas time when Starr received the first of the threatening letters.

She was seated across the breakfast table from Michael in the little alcove overlooking the shining East River when Sapphira came in with the morning mail. She handed it all to Michael, who ran his eye through the letters and handed over an envelope addressed to Starr. It was addressed in a rough, unformed hand. Not to Mrs. Michael Fairbourne, but simply to Starr Ellison.

Michael laughed queerly as he glanced up at her, handing her the letter.

"I thought everybody knew that we were married. Better advise your friends, Starr."

That was ridiculous. Actually she had not a friend in the world, now that she had cut herself loose from those who had known her in the New England town, who probably had not the faintest idea she was still in the land of the living. No friends—only acquaintances. Like Lance and Stephanie, Tod Ranger, and perhaps Marjorie Browning, and the rest of that fast-stepping crowd. Certainly they could not be called friends.

With a curious pang of fear that caught her breath in her throat, she slit the envelope. A half strangled cry forced back, through her lips as the words stared at her. Then nameless dread plunged through her like a cold dagger.

On a single sheet of paper was written in that same unformed hand: "You cannot escape your fate. You and the man you love."

There was no signature, only a queer scrawl near the bottom of the page that may or may not have been her handwriting. Starr did not know. She was in a daze. Then she became aware that Michael was staring sharply.

"What is it? What's the matter, Starr? Don't look like that!"

Somehow she pulled herself together, tried to smile with unconcern.

"It's nothing," she said, with too elaborate carelessness. "Nothing at all." But her lips shook, and her face was as white as the paper she held in her hand.

Michael's eyes seemed to be peering down into her very soul. He said sternly:

"Notence! There is something the matter. You look positively sick, Starr."

The note was crumpled in her nerveless fingers. She stared at him in a stricken silence. Michael held out his hand. Masterful again.

"Starr, let me see that letter!"

Her numb lips moved, and in her dark eyes was tragedy. "She shook her head."

"I can't, Michael. It isn't anything. I told you so."

The familiar line on Michael's jaw stood out. He spoke steadily.

"There should be no secrets between husband and wife. Let me see that letter!"

It had become a matter of vital importance, now. Michael was demanding a husband's rights, and Starr knew she must refuse him. She would refuse him, no matter what happened. And he was probably thinking—

Suspicion edged his voice.

Starr did not dare imagine what he was thinking. But she was thinking—remembering. . . . That whispered conversation with Lance, and now came a mysterious letter which she would not explain. Did he think that she and Lance was communicating clandestinely, and only the chance of this letter having arrived at an inopportune time had betrayed the secret?

Dully Starr repeated, as she shook her head: "I can't!"

Michael did not ask her again. He simply got up from the table, leaving his breakfast half finished. He stalked out into the entry way and yanked his hat and coat from the hook. Starr heard the outer door bang behind him.

It was the first time since their marriage that he had gone out of the apartment without kissing her goodbye.

The distraught bride paced her long living room in a mental torment. She paid no attention to Sapphira's perplexed comments, as if she had not heard her.

What was the meaning of this ominous note? Where had it come from? Who knew? It was like a direct answer to the fear which had been growing upon her slowly since the day her honeymoon ended.

In spite of her busy days, she had long hours in which to brood, hours when she was alone. Michael, fired with the enthusiasm of providing for their future, had been working under double pressure. She had been thinking about the future, too, defying her inexorable fate, planning, working for a home in which she and Michael should spend long years together. She might have known the futility of that!

Weeks had sped by rapidly. With a dazed feeling Starr now suddenly realized that it was many weeks—weeks that had flown into months—since the doctor had told her: "You won't live another six months."

Suppose his prophecy came true? Suppose the curses did fall upon her, as all along she had felt in the depths of her soul that it would? She had defied her destiny. Love—married. Was it to end now—her forbidden happiness?

Royal Robes

Royal School Of Needlework Engaged On Fine Embroidery

Thirty-five needlewomen have been chosen by Lady Smith-Dorrien, principal of the Royal School of Needlework, for the Coronation work which will be carried out at the school during the next three months. They will be engaged mainly on fine embroidery work on the canopy to be held over the King and Queen during the ceremony.

The King's robe will be that which was made at the school in 1902 for King Edward VII, and it is to be sent to the school shortly to be thoroughly examined, and repaired if necessary. It is of cloth of gold, embroidered all over with colored emblems—Red Tudor roses, green shamrocks, purple thistles and silver eagles.

The canopy will be made entirely at the school, of cloth of gold, with 18 raised silver eagles round the border. It will be lined with rich white satin, and supported at each corner by four slender silver poles.

The Queen's dress will be made of white satin and will be embroidered all over in white and gold. Designs for the embroidery of the dress include Dominion and Colonial emblems.—London Times.

Yacht Will Cost Million

Challenger For America's Cup Is Building Luxurious Craft

The most luxurious yacht believed ever to have been built for a private owner will soon be launched for T. O. M. Sopwith, aircraft millionaire and challenger for the America's cup. It is his 10th yacht in 10 years and will cost him $1,000,000, bringing his total outlay for yachts to $5,000,000.

Guests will fare well, with accommodation for 50, and such extra equipment as a tiled swimming pool, a gymnasium, a hospital, a ballroom and a cocktail bar. Some cabins will be decorated in modern style, some in period. There will be golf practice nets and sliding panels of sun ray glass on the promenade deck.

New Regulations Effective

Restrictions Placed On Germany's Restaurants Under Nazi Plan

Fewer dishes on the bill of fare, fewer table cloths in restaurants, and therefore less laundry, are some of the new measures to help Germany become self-sufficient in her food and raw material supply under the new four-year plan.

This was announced at the hotel and restaurant proprietors' meeting at Hanover recently. The new regulations became effective with the advent of the new year.

No bill of fare, even in the most expensive restaurants, is permitted to offer more than four different soups, 10 "dishes of the day," 10 fried or grilled dishes, six egg dishes, six different kinds of cold and four kinds of warm hors d'oeuvre, or 15 cold dishes such as cold cut, various special salads and cold fish.

Ordinary salads, vegetables, game and poultry may only be offered according to season. No stipulations have been made regarding cheese and dessert. Hot fish is the only major dish not subject to any restrictions, as the consumption of fish is to be encouraged.

Menus of the larger restaurants may offer no more than six major dishes, of which two must be fish, while menus of medium-sized restaurants may offer no more than three dishes, of which one must be fish.

Restaurant tables having marble or wooden tops, which can be cleaned, are not to be covered by table cloths. Saving can be made in laundry, it is said, without impairing either cleanliness or hygiene.

Cutlery, crockery and kitchen utensils in new restaurants are to consist of glass, porcelain or metals which are easily obtainable, in order to save silver, nickel and copper.

Industry For Alberta

News that Utah interests are planning a woolen mill for Magrath is further evidence that Southern Alberta is developing industrially in the direction of those industries for which it is best suited, states the Lethbridge Herald.

A woolen mill, in the centre of a district which produces 2,500,000 pounds of wool annually, and in an area where woolen clothing is a vital necessity of the residents, sounds logical.

A column of air one mile square extending from 50 feet to 14,000 feet above the earth contains, on an average for all seasons, about 25,000,000 insects.

Must Be Competition

Government Order Regulates The Sale Of Militia Horses

The government will tolerate no combinations in restraint of trade, nor secret covenants made to restrict free competition—even in the sale of militia horses. From time to time the noble steeds are found unfit for further service, or, for other reasons, have to be sold. In any case, the national defence department will see that fair's fair.

General order No. 2, tabled in the House of Commons by Ian Mackenzie, minister of national defence, makes this clear. It set forth that when one of these chargers has to be sold the sale has to be done by auction, and the C.O. of the regiment promoting the sale "will detail an officer to attend."

The reason is clear. The G.O. 2 continues that it will be the duty of this officer "to see that no combination exists to keep down the price. If such combination is apparent he will, after consultation with the auctioneer, postpone the sale."

The auctioneer gets a $5 fee if the sale price is $100, and five per cent, if over. However, there might not be much in it for the auctioneer because, says the order, he "will pay for all the advertising."

Free Scholarship

Little Helps For This Week

Remember O Lord Thy tender mercies and Thy loving-kindnesses, for they have ever been of old. Psalm 25:6.

My Father I see and trust. The faithfulness displayed of old, I trust the love that never can grow cold; I trust in Thee.

Be not so much discouraged in the sight of what is yet to be done, as comforted in His good-will towards thee. It is true He has chastened thee with rods of sore afflictions, but He ever take away his loving-kindness from thee, or did His faithfulness ever fail thee in the darkest night that ever befell thee? We call Him the God of our fathers, and we feel there is some stability at centre when we can tell our cares to One listening at our right hand and by whom their cares have been remembered and removed.

A Century-Old Pipe

A pipe 125 years old, and carved out of three sections of elk's horn, was found hidden in the crotch of the branches of an old tree cut down on a Yarmouth township farm, near Port Stanley, Ontario. The letters "J. Hall, 1811" are carved on the pipe.

The bankers of New York City were the first employees to go on strike in America. The strike occurred in 1741. In those early days strikers were treated as conspirators but convictions seldom were obtained.

Main Street

We are pleased to see Mr. Osterhout out again after his recent illness.

Mrs. I. S. Reeds and Mrs. Hutchinson are confined to their homes this week through illness.

Mrs. Gordon Fenton is in the Wainwright hospital, recovering nicely from her recent operation.

Art Muckleson returned home on Tuesday, after spending several days with his wife and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Osterhout.

Miss F. Lang of Chauvin, who has been visiting for some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Peterson, returned to her home this week.

The postponed meeting of the W. M. S. will be held Thursday afternoon, February 25th, at the home of Mrs. Arnold. All interested are very cordially invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Frickleton, accompanied by Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. T. Askin, Mr. A. E. Peterson and Mr. L. A. Schon, motored to Edmonton last Wednesday on business.

A few changes have been made in the Irma high school board this year. The trustees are Messrs. A. E. Peterson, chairman; A. E. Blackley, O. Stefensen, L. R. Nash, L. B. King, and C. E. Fenton.

Word reached town on Wednesday that Mr. C. L. Currie's residence in the Albert district caught fire that morning. The house was saved but a considerable amount of damage was done before the fire was brought under control.

The Irma village council got away to a good start for the year at their meeting this week. Mr. Ross McFarland, the new councillor, signed the declaration of office; Mr. Jas. Hedley was elected mayor; E. W. Carter, secretary-treasurer; Dr. C. Greenberg, medical health officer, and R. W. Maguire, fire chief.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Irma was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Elliott on Thursday, February 11th, where plans for a Valentine's tea and sale of home cooking for Saturday, Feb. 20th were discussed. Everyone privileged to be present were greatly impressed by Mrs. C. McKay's paper on "Home." One of the distinct impressions was "Is it not worth while to make the spot where we hang our hats, in reality, 'Home Sweet Home'." Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Many points of live interest were evolved from the study of the annual Provincial Report Book at the last W. C. T. U. meeting. Departments reviewed were: Evangelistic, Systematic Giving, Scientific Temperance, Fairs and Exhibits, Social Hygiene, Christian Citizenship, Flower Mission and Relief, Travellers' Aid, Lord's Day Observance, Moral Temperance, Press Work, Legislation and Petition, Peace and Arbitration.

The local superintendents gave the gist of the inspirational character, each of her respective provincial superintendents' message.

For instance, Mrs. Coffin quoted, with a few additional remarks, Mrs. Rowe's words, "If blood must be shed let it be of martyrs, not soldiers." Also "Why did the British Government consult with Basil Zaharoff, head salesman of armaments, when the question of bringing the war to a close in 1917 was up for discussion and continue the war on his advice? and then knight this man Zaharoff, armament salesman, at the close of the war?"

Mrs. Osterhout, "When we bank on God we become shareholders in the bank of heaven."

Mrs. Locke spoke urgently of our need to know more of the legal status of women, as affecting their personality, their influence, their home.

The Evangelistic Department was said to link up the organization with the Divine Spirit; in Scientific Temperance Instruction the fact was brought out that last year practically half the National prizes (12 of 26) were awarded to boys and girls of Alberta's public, separate and high schools, and that this year more school inspectors than ever before are advocating and co-operating with this department in the S.T.I. contest. Under Social Hygiene it was shown a "Teacher's Book on Sex Questions" is advocated in Denmark; the value of Press Work was emphasized; saving of coupons for Travellers' Aid was stimulated; emphasis was given (under Moral Temperance) to the harm in alcoholics as a (so-called) remedy.

The president's splendid address was touched upon too briefly for its merits, due to lack of time. Reference was made to Group Findings, Resolutions, and Plan of Work—to be studied more.

The following resolution was drafted and is being sent to Premier King from this local Union:

To Mackenzie King,
Premier of Canada.

Whereas, we are convinced from history, observation, and experience, that war results in no good, having no beneficial effects, but, instead, destroys property, slaughters human beings, despoils homes, causes suffering and untold horrors, and leaves in its trail nothing better than sorrow, destruction and financial ruin; and, whereas, we recognize that financial profit and greed for power are the chief instigating factors that lead to war,

Therefore be it resolved that we, the members of the Irma Women's Christian Temperance Union, do earnestly supplicate that every possible effort be bent toward maintaining peace, both at home and abroad, as the only fit condition in which civilized nations should live; and

That, pursuant to this purpose, all profit be eliminated by government action from the manufacture and disposition of armaments; and furthermore,

That, if war prove unavoidable for Canada, wealth be conscripted first, instead of citizenry.

Hon. Solon Low stated Saturday that the redemption of prosperity certificates last month amounted to $23,508 and the amount still outstanding on January 25 was $29,487. In this sum is about $18,000 issued to civil servants each month. Redemptions for the sixth period which opened this week were slow, he said.

THE MISCHIEVOUS STUDENT

'Twas in the spring, when trees and shrubs alike
In deep green robes of foliage were arrayed,
And the flowers pushed with great timidity their heads
Up through the turf; and opened wide their eyes,
Nodding their greetings to the sprouting world.

The sun, smiling and casting down his rays,
Rose majestic in the azure sky;
And threw his beams into the school house room
Upon the many desks, and students who rejoiced.

To feel its warmth. One scholar raised his head
From his book, wherein it told of kings and wars—
And queens; and forefathers brave, who died,
(So the story goes) for a patriotic cause.

His roving eyes upon a ray of sunshine fell,
That entered through a crack between the blinds;
So from his desk a little mirror took,
And placed it in the passage of the beam.

The reflection like a meteor flashed upon the wall,
And the student with a nimble hand designed
Many figures on the ceiling and the walls.
So concentrated on his play was he

The master watching he perceiveth not—
Then as molten rock from Mount Vesuvius
Vomited from the inner pits of Hades
Falls upon the mountain dweller's home,
And extinguishes what little life is there,
Bringing a happy life unto a tragic end—
So down upon the playful student fell
The master's voice—seething with scorn and rage,
Chiding the scholar for his wasteful trait,
Reigning upon him threats of treatment harsh,
And expulsion, should he but use again
His mirror for such a worthless cause.

Behind a dark foreboding cloud of rain;
Even the windows rattled in their stays,
And the ink in all the bottles paled and grew thin,
As like thunder in the heavens pealed,
The teacher's voice echoed through the room—
And the plaster cracked and fell upon the floor;
The walls and windows and ceiling shouted back
Ghoulis echoes that reverberated and dwindled,
As through the fresh air vent they came.

Then as suddenly as it came, the storm had gone,
And the master checked his thrashing tongue,
That cut like the steel tipped lash of the teamster's whip.
The sun came out and shone upon the school,
And the scholars once again did start to breathe;
But the guilty one, still suffering from the stings
Of the teacher's words, did shake and show a sickly grin
Which vanished like a bubble in a breeze.

When the principal a glance his way did take,
And when the storm subsided, the pupils all
Fell to their lessons with energy renewed—
And the birds, whose twittering had long since ceased,
Chirped and sang as from tree to tree they flew,
Exulting in the peaceful lull that came.

After the storm. And so the days fly on,
But always in the minds of those who saw it strike,

Will remain the memory of a storm that brought
All but disaster to a boy, tired of history, thought he'd found
More pleasant ways of using up the time.
